

I am in the process of working to bring high speed Internet to several rural towns in VT. The obstacles we face are huge. Making this spectrum available would not make it a cake walk but in some case might make it possible where it was not before or make the process a bit easier. Without changes being made I do not see anyway for every person in VT to have broadband by 2007. Of course this alone will not be enough but it would help.

Thanks,

Paonia
